GRADUATION, 1978—Virtually every commencement exercise speaker who ever mounted a podium has emphasized that graduation is only a beginning, whether the event marks completion of a university graduate degree program or as here, the end of the 12th Bay-Waveland Headstart Program.

MAIN STREET CAVE-IN—This hole in the recently repaved section of Main Street in Bay St. Louis is a sewer cave-in, according to Bay St. Louis Mayor Larry Bennett. The mayor said the city has not accepted the street as completed, and will ask the Bay City Council for authority to rectify the situation tonight at City Hall. (Staff photo-Rich Adams)

'New' Main Street sustains cave-in

By RICH ADAMS
A sewer line break beneath the recently repaved section of Main Street in Bay St. Louis has caused a cave-in, putting Mayor Larry Bennett "between a rock and a hard place."
The cave-in occurred Tuesday and origin of the gaping hole was not determined until Wednesday afternoon. Wednesday morning, Bay St. Louis Utilities Supervisor William Johnson said he did not know if the cave-in was caused by poor road foundation or a sewer line break.
Wednesday afternoon, Bennett said the hole is definitely a sewer line break, and he will seek an answer to what action to take in repairing the road tonight when he meets with the City Council.
Johnson said the area is undermined and a follow-up has resulted under the roadway.

He said the mayor is notifying Burke and Associates, engineers for the city, of the already deteriorating conditions of the street.
The mayor said he contacted Burke and Associates Wednesday, where a spokesman said the firm did not supervise the laying of the ruptured sewer line, and are therefore not responsible for the cave-in.
Bennett said the fact that the city has not yet accepted the project as complete poses a problem in repairing the break.
"I don't know if we can go in and tear up the road since it has not been accepted yet," the mayor said.
"I am between a rock and a hard place. I will meet with the City Council Thursday and ask authorization to do whatever is necessary," he added.

New HNC elementary, southern high school ok'd by citizens

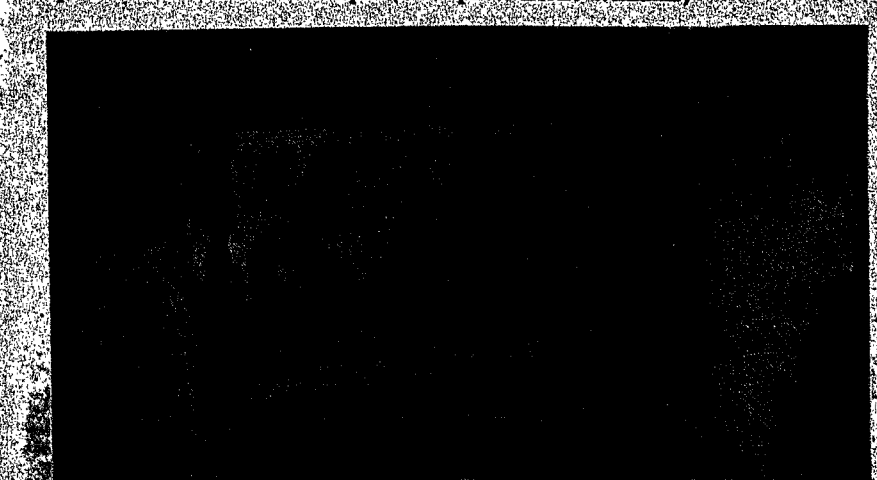

By LESLIE WILLIAMS
The Hancock County School District's Advisory Committee and a majority of residents who attended a town meeting at Hancock North Central Tuesday night voiced support of a proposed bond issue to finance renovations at HNC, a new elementary near that school, and a new junior-senior high school south of I-10.
Some 38 of approximately 45 residents gathered in the school cafeteria voted for 'Plan Two' which calls for renovations at HNC and construction of an elementary school within a quarter-mile of HNC, and a junior-senior high south of I-10.
Plan One, also up for consideration at the meeting, would correct all deficiencies listed by the State Department of Education's accreditation department at a cost of $1,223,800.
Plan Three calls for two junior-senior high schools—one south of I-10 and one north of I-10, in addition to the Hancock North Central Attendance Center being converted into an elementary and a special education center.
All three plans would require voter approval of a capital improvements bond issue to finance construction.
An estimated $4.2 million was reported needed to finance Plan Three at a county school board meeting last week.
However, Plan Three's cost was estimated at $5,000, 526 at the town meeting, some $27,000 more than is available to the school district, according to recent figures compiled by school architect John Mykoyk and Associates of Pass Christian.
Plan Three was taken out at the town meeting because figures are not available.
Several advisory committee members stated the $1,223,800 Plan One is very short sighted and does not provide for future growth of the school system.

Finances for Plan Two are expected to come from a potential $3,722,459

capital improvements bond issue, TOWN MEETING—Page 6A

By RICH ADAMS
The Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School Board Monday tentatively agreed to return local pay supplements to 1978-1979 levels and reinstate $100 taken from some teachers under a recently adopted pay scale.
The board agreed to study the school budget and will make a final decision on a new pay plan at a special meeting Tuesday.
Nearly 70 teachers, taxpayers, and administrators crowded into the Senior High meeting room Monday as North Bay Elementary teachers Neil Woodall and Mary Kay Dean asked the board to make a "fair, moral decision" and reinstate the money to experienced teachers.

The issue stems from a salary scale adopted by the board in a special 2 p.m. meeting May 4, when the board set local pay supplements at $300 for all teachers.

The move was in effect a $100 raise for most teachers, but in the case of some experienced teachers, an $300 local increment is a $100 to $200 pay

Brown Decision

The Hancock Branch, National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, will join with some 1,700 association branches nationwide in celebrating the 25th anniversary of the U.S. Supreme Court's Brown Decision.
Ms. Clementine Williams, Hancock Branch president, said the local group will join Bay St. Louis Mayor Larry Bennett at noon Thursday for signing of a national proclamation in observance of the event.
The Supreme Court in 1954 held in the case of Brown versus Board of Education that the previously held doctrine of "separate but equal" educational facilities for black and white races was no longer valid in the United States.
That ruling established that segregation in public education is unconstitutional.

Teachers prepare for negotiations

By RICH ADAMS
Members of the Bay St. Louis Local, Mississippi Association of Educators, met Tuesday night to discuss possible avenues of action should the Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School Board not approve that union's proposed pay plan.
The teacher organization Monday presented the board with a plan which proposes the school district revise a salary scale adopted May 4 which the union considers unfair to experienced teachers.

The union claims experienced teachers are suffering a loss in pay under the new pay plan which equalizes teacher's local supplement at $300 next year.
The more experienced teachers say they are losing between $100 to $200 dollars, according to years of experience and certificates held.

North Bay trailer replacements sought

By RICH ADAMS
Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School Board Member James Gim suggested Monday the board meet to discuss immediate plans for construction at North Bay Elementary School to replace what he called "deplorable" trailers being used for classrooms.
The board agreed to meet Tuesday night at Bay Senior High School in a special meeting to discuss the construction plans.

Waveland city pier shut down

By RICH ADAMS
The Garfield Lader Memorial Pier in Waveland has been closed by the City Council due to damage sustained during high winds and waters of an April 22 storm.
The Council unanimously passed a resolution temporarily closing the breakwater and setting fines to be levied if anyone is found trespassing on the pier.
"This is just temporary until we repair the pier," Waveland Mayor John Longo said Wednesday.
"We will reopen the breakwater as soon as it is repaired. This is just temporary," he emphasized.
"We just have not decided what to do about it," Longo added.
The ordinance, approved at a May 1 meeting of the Council, sets a fine of no more than $50 for a first trespassing offense, $100 for the second infraction, and $150 or 30 days in the county jail for third offenders.
The ordinance says the pier is "closed as a result of high winds and water, the Garfield Lader Memorial Pier sustained serious damage, and in order to protect the safety of the public."
"I would like to close the breakwater to automobile traffic only and leave it open to pedestrians, but we have to be careful nobody is hurt," Mayor Longo said.
"Maybe we will get some disaster relief money and be able to repair the pier with that," he added.
The entrance of the pier is presently blocked by sand piles and has a sign warning of penalties for trespassing.

Water spoils threaten sea food production here

BY LESLIE WILLIAMS

A U.S. Department of the Interior official has requested Army engineers to refrain from placing spoils on underwater banks in the Mississippi Sound, a practice which could damage sea food production.

"Spoils from maintenance dredging in the Gulf Intracoastal Waterway should be placed in diked upland areas to prevent destruction of valuable Mississippi Sound nursery grounds," recommends J. Paul Smith.

Smith, a field supervisor for United States Department of Interior's Fish and Wildlife Service, Division of Ecological Services based at National Space Technology Laboratories, made the request in a letter to the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

The ecologist's letter was in response to a Corps request for comment from Smith's division on maintenance dredging in the Mississippi Sound.

The Corps has proposed excavation of approximately 384,000 cubic yards of material from the Intracoastal Waterway which runs through the Sound.

"The Corps plans to dredge the bottom of the waterway and place spoils on an underwater bank in the Sound," Smith explains.

Roger Gerth, Civil Engineer for the Corps' mobile district, says about 10 miles of the Intracoastal Waterway off Hancock County will be dredged.

The waterway is a 125-foot wide, 12-foot deep, channel that extends from the Texas-Mexican border to St. Marks River in Florida, explains Gerth.

The project began in 1968 with the Rivers and Harbors Act, he added.

"The channel was constructed to provide ships, tugs and barges with a navigable waterway, Gerth added.

Gerth says the 12-foot hole is beginning to fill in.

"The waterway is probably at a 10 feet depth now, and we need to do periodic maintenance dredging before the waterway becomes a hazard to navigation," he emphasized.

Smith contends, "This project and the cumulative effects of similar maintenance dredging operations may adversely impact shrimp production in the Sound."

Approximately 540 acres of the Mississippi Sound bottom are designated for potential alteration by the proposed action.

"The area designated for disposal is located in a productive nursery ground for many estuarine species," Smith continues.

Both crabs and oysters will also be hurt by the spoils, says Smith.

The field supervisor states 13 million pounds of crabs valued at $473,000 were landed in the Sound during 1977, and approximately 1.4 million pounds of oysters valued at $1.2 million were also landed in the Sound during the same year.

"The local economy is enhanced by the amount of seafood landed in the Sound," Smith insists.

An excerpt from Smith's letter to the Corps dated May 10, 1979 states: "According to Isphording, heavy metals that were previously bound to organics can be readily reintroduced into the water column."

"Many filter feeding organisms, such as the American oyster, can retain these pollutants within their body tissues."

"Additionally, the accumulation of dredged materials on the proposed spoil site could produce significant alterations to salinity regimes, tidal flushing, and current patterns in Mississippi Sound," the letter continues.

"We have determined that the proposed disposal site will adversely impact fish and wildlife resources in the area," concludes the letter.

Smith has asked the Corps consider placing the spoils in deep waters of the Gulf of Mexico, as a second alternative if an upland site can not be located.

Gerth said the Corps is doing its best to prevent any damage to seafood in the sound, and "the spoils will have a very minimal harmful effect—if any at all."

Gerth contends efforts to transport the spoils to the Gulf or upland would be "economically unfeasible."

"Besides," Gerth continued, "if the waterway was not dredged the fishermen couldn't get to the catch because the waterway would not be navigable."

Pat Langan, chief of navigation for the Corps' Mobile District, says transporting the spoils to the Gulf or upland is a "complicated matter."

"The equipment needed to transport the spoils over such a long distance presently doesn't exist," Langan added.

The three officials noted a Mississippi Sound study is presently underway, and the alternative of transporting spoils to the Gulf or upland sites is being addressed in the study.

Pass Fleet Blessing to be Sunday gala

The Third Annual Blessing of the Fleet sponsored by the Pass Christian Area Chamber of Commerce will be at the east side of the Pass Christian Harbor Sunday at 2 p.m.

Police Chief Ed Alley is chairman. Crawfish, shrimp and fish and a live band for dancing will be featured, Alley said.

The Rev. H. McDonald Morse of Trinity Episcopal Church and Rev. John O'Brien of St. Paul's Catholic Church will conduct the blessing of the boats, many to be gaily decorated.

The Queen of the Fleet will be Delon (Dee Dee) Marie Torgeson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Torgeson, 28 Gulf Terrace Avenue, Pass Christian. She will graduate from Pass Christian High School May 25.

Runner-up is Miss Elizabeth Cunningham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Cunningham, Rt. 2, Box 55, Pass Christian.

She is a graduate of Harrison Central High School.

This year's event will be in memory of Frank J. Daley Jr., who was killed in an accident aboard the Janet Louise on November 9, 1954.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Daley of St. Paul's Ave, Pass Christian, and had graduated from St. Joseph's School in May, 1954.

Chief Alley said a perpetual trophy initiated this year in memory of young Daley will be awarded to the best overall boat.

Also, there will be a first and second place trophies for the most gaily decorated boat 52 feet and above, first and second place for 35 feet to 52 feet, and a first and second for 35' and under.

There will also be a first and second place trophy for the best decorated pleasure boat.

Trophies will also be given to the Queen of the fleet and her runner up.

Hospital Auxiliary

contributes $1,500

The Hancock General Hospital Auxiliary has presented $1,500 to the hospital toward purchase of equipment "that will most contribute to the comfort of the patient."

The Auxiliary operates the hospital's gift shop in addition to its other activities, according to Muriel Brokmeier, secretary.

"We do not meet during June, July and August," she noted, adding, "Our next meeting will be Sept. 6."

Bay School System continues 'childfind'

The Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District is participating in an ongoing statewide effort to identify, locate, and evaluate children under the age of 21 who are physically, mentally, communicatively and/or emotionally handicapped.

Early identification of children in need of special educational experiences is most important to each child. Furthermore, this information will be used to help determine present and future program needs as progress is made toward the goal of providing a free appropriate public education to all handicapped children, according to J.D. McCullough, superintendent.

The Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District provided free appropriate public educational programming for handicapped children aged six through eighteen by September 1, 1978, and will provide the same for those aged six through twenty by September 1, 1980.

Information which could identify an individual child will be maintained by this school district and will be provided to other agencies only in accord with the Family Rights and Privacy Act.

"As a parent, you are guaranteed the right to inspect any such information about your child and to challenge its accuracy. Access to this information is forbidden to any unauthorized person without your informed consent," McCullough added.

"If you have any questions regarding the collection and maintenance of data about your child, please contact Mrs. Brenda Scafield by calling 467-9237, or by writing to her at Bay Senior High School, Blue Meadow Road, Bay St. Louis; the superintendent concluded.

Don't take this old world to seriously You will never get out alive.

F.M. Kyle tells of cable additions

South Central Bell District Manager F.M. Kyle Jr. said more than $170,000 of cable facility additions are being installed in the Diamondhead subdivision in Hancock County.

More than 14,000 feet of 900 circuit and smaller cable is being added to a $94,000 project in the Diamondhead Drive East area, and 10,000 feet of aerial and 800 feet of buried cable is being added to facilities in the Kiln-Dellale Road and Diamondhead Drive North areas, Kyle said. Kyle said the additions are being made to serve the "growing demand for telephone services in the Diamondhead area."

"These additional facilities will enable us to handle requests for new phone service in this area as well as feeder cable to the Diamondhead area," Kyle said.

Waveland woman chairs state veterans committee

Mrs. Pauline Charming of Waveland is Chairman of the Planning Committee for the 22nd annual Convention of Mississippi Department Veterans of World War I and Ladies Auxiliary to be conducted May 17 and 18.

The meeting will take place at Best Western Motel in Gulfport.

Registration for the event will begin the morning of May 17, opening with a joint session at 2 p.m.

Department Commander, J.E. Evans of Foxworth will be in charge of the Veterans' meetings and Mrs. Cassie Trigg of Quitman, department president of the Ladies Auxiliary, will preside over the Ladies' sessions.

The National organizations will be represented by George W. Fowler of Dodge City, Kansas, senior vice commander of the veterans, and Mrs. Betty Page of Lima, Ohio, senior vice president of the Ladies Auxiliary.

Those assisting Mrs. Charming with arrangements for the convention have been Mrs. Clara Riley, Mrs.

Genevieve Cole, Ira L. Hurst, Clyde A. Rogers, and Earl J. Webb. Local Chairmen are Sam and Lena Dedman, commander and president, respectively, of the Gulfport Barracks and Ladies Auxiliary.

Other events of Thursday following the Joint Session will be the memorial service and board meetings. The convention banquet will be held that evening with Eddie Khayatt of Pascagoula as the principal speaker.

Friday's sessions will be devoted to general business, officer and auxiliary reports, the election and installation of officers for the 1979-1980 administrative year, and brief meetings of the new boards. Following the close of business there will be a reception honoring the outgoing commander and president and the national representatives.

Bay Police investigate boat theft

Officer Larry Ladner of the Bay St. Louis Police Department is investigating a recent theft of equipment from a boat owned by Dr. Thomas B. Murphee of 113 Molere Drive, Waveland.

The boat was moored in a slip at Bay-Waveland Yacht Club when the theft occurred sometime between April 6 and 8, according to Police Chief Douglas Williams.

Lost in the theft were depth recorder, rods and reels, two tackle boxes filled with equipment, and a 22 cal. automatic, police reported.

EDITORIALS

Congratulations, Graduates!

In recent days and days to come, 1979 graduates by the hundreds will be leaving area high schools.

Many will be going on to further their educations by attending colleges and universities. Others will join the military and there will be those who go to work.

We realize that it has been a long haul. At least you may think it has been a long 12 years and we congratulate you on your 'sticking it out' as the saying goes.

We wish you well in whatever endeavour you may pursue. You are our leaders of tomorrow and tomorrow will be here a lot faster than you think.

Education is something no one can take from you, you have earned yours, use it no matter which way you may go. If you have an opportunity of furthering your education, we feel that should be your prime consideration.

What ever your career may be, the better your education, the more rewarding to you your endeavors will be.

We are proud of the class of 1979, your generation has had to cope with many problems earlier generations never dreamed of.

Good luck!

North Bay.....

about building programs," Ginn said Monday.

"We built the cafeteria (at Bay Junior High School), and I know that was a priority," he continued.

"For the trailers at North Bay, I understand we can get Educational Finance Commission funds of $60,000 each year for construction," he added.

The trailers, which are 9-years-old, have been the subject of controversy since North Bay Parent-Teacher Organization President Lana Noonan discovered the aging trailers are holding up state money which could be used for air conditioning.

School Superintendent J. D. McCullough said the school has a short-term loan which will offer two mills over a period of five years, but added some of that money is already earmarked for another project.

Board President Virginia Gex explained a revised long-range plan listing the school's intended construction was recently sent to the EFC in Jackson.

Ginn mentioned that a bond issue will possibly have to be put to a vote next year if the construction is not started soon.

"In a few years we may have to look for a bond issue to bail us out, but that might not bail us out," he said.

"We have five trailers, and some people say those are ready for the junk heap," Ginn added.

Board Member Walter Turcotte said McCullough has a plan to add six classrooms to the elementary school, build a new cafeteria, and convert the existing cafeteria into office space.

Ms. Gex explained renovations slated in the long range plan.

"If construction is not listed in the long-range plan, we cannot apply for grants. In the new long-range plan we added classrooms to North Bay," Ms.

Gex said. "We also desperately need classrooms at Waveland Elementary," she continued.

"We have planned six new classrooms at North Bay, along with one acoustical room for music, and renovation of the cafeteria into office space and a new library," she added.

Ginn suggested doing the construction little at a time with available funds.

"If we get the money for six classrooms, that is great," Ginn said. "If we can't, two will be better than nothing," he added.

Board Member Betty Diboll immediately agreed with Ginn's recommendation.

Board Member Maurice Singleton said if something was not done, the school will soon be seeking emergency relief as the Hancock County School District is now, in an effort to save accreditation.

"I don't know what we can do now," Singleton said. "In the next few years, we will be in the same situation as the county schools are in."

supplement for next year's salary scale, which was agreed on by the rest of the board.

Board Member Walter Turcotte was the only member who did not vote in favor of the issue, but abstained.

The school board will meet next Tuesday night to discuss the proposal.

The MAE meeting Tuesday centered on a discussion of possible complications which may arise in the board's deliberations next week.

The organization discussed many alternative steps if the board should reject the salary scale, among them a union refusal to accept any pay plan other than a continuance of the current local supplements.

Ron Dailey, a specialist with the National Education Association, was at the meeting to offer his support in the union's goal.

Dailey is a field representative assigned to the southeast area of the country, specifically Mississippi.

"I am like a fireman waiting a fire," Dailey told the organization members. "We see a smoldering fire here, but it has neither gone out or burnt out of control yet," he continued.

"What you teachers are doing here and have achieved so far is to conduct a reasonable demonstration," Dailey said. "Teachers are shortchanged in this country. A great social obligation is education, and society should place a high priority on that facet of life," the NEA representative continued.

"I believe with that importance on our shoulders, we have been short-changed," he added.

"Mississippi has the lowest paid teachers in the nation, and your district is not the highest paying in the state," he said.

Dailey said he was at the meeting to show the NEA's support of the teacher's part in the dispute, and added he and "1.6 million other teachers" are behind the Bay St. Louis group.

The teachers, headed by Bay St. Louis MAE President-elect Judy Barrett and Field Representative Burt Barrett, decided to hand-deliver copies of the proposed pay plan to each board member and ask for support.

The union did not reach an official decision on which plan of action to follow if a different proposal is offered by the board.

State Representative Gerald Blessey, the local union's attorney, was at the meeting and discussed the Bay school board's controversial Policy 15.

He contended the policy is unconstitutional in that it does not offer equal protection of the law under the 14th amendment of the Constitution.

Pay Plan....

reduction. The Bay St. Louis Local, Mississippi Association of Educators complained the $800 figure is "unfair" dropping some experienced teachers from as much as a $950 increment to the $800 level.

The MEA obtained legal services of State Representative Gerald Blessey of Biloxi to represent them in case a legal battle arose between the board and union.

At the meeting, Woodall and Dean were on the agenda to request the money be reinstated.

Woodall said the board had time to study a packet of figures hand-delivered by MAE members showing the losses.

"Teachers under 10 years of experience got the $100," Woodall told the board.

"Teachers with more than 10 years of experience received a $100 deduction," she explained.

"Younger teachers are not effected by this loss to more experienced teachers, but they are upset," she added.

"As a person and representative of all teachers, not an organization, I ask the board to make a fair decision," Woodall continued.

"Please reason with us in good faith and do what is lawful and best for all," she added.

Woodall explained she thinks the board was not aware that some teachers would lose money with the across-the-board local increment of $800.

Board Member James Ginn said it is the board's intent to see all teachers are fairly treated.

"Our biggest problem is communication," Ginn told the teachers. "The board's intent was to treat all teachers fairly. It was not our intent to cut salaries. We intended to give all teachers a salary increase," he continued.

"If action is not taken, some teachers with less experience will get raises and others will not," he added.

McCullough, who remained silent through most of the meeting, then listed increment increases in the salary plan.

Woodall explained the teachers are not dissatisfied with the monetary loss, but rather with the principle of the matter.

"We don't want you to get the impression that we are not satisfied with the state increment. This is now a matter of principle, not economics," Woodall said.

"Teaching is getting more and more difficult. (State Representative) J.P. Compretta said the state raises are designed to reward teachers for experience, and we feel that is jeopardized under the board's salary plan for next year," she added.

"Mr. Compretta and Mr. Blessey said the Legislature did not intend for local supplements to be dropped because of an increase in state salary. The increase was intended to act as incentive for teachers who are finding teaching more and more difficult because of student hassles," Woodall explained.

Board President Virginia Gex explained the previous increase in local supplement was offered because the boys between the ages 9-12. Parks and Playgrounds Director Billy Rhodes is seeking coaches for the teams. Anyone interested is asked to attend the registrations and tryouts Saturday.

state did not add an increment in some experienced teachers' salaries.

She explained that teachers received $700 local increment until the state ceased giving an annual increase in regular state pay after so many years of experience and depending on the type certificate held.

The school district then added that annual increment to the local supplement to make up for the loss in state money.

"Some schools don't even give local supplements," Ms. Gex said.

Teachers from the audience then began grumbling, including shouts of "some schools pay a lot more."

"I believe I still have the floor," Ms. Gex said loudly.

Woodall then expressed her feelings as to the board's actions.

"This hurts me," she said. "When you increased my increment $200, I was tickled pink."

"The board did this out of appreciation. It would not have hurt if the board would have let the local increment stay the same," she added.

"I cannot see the fairness of the change. You hurt us by taking the money away," Woodall said.

Board Attorney Lucien Gex, when asked for a legal opinion, started denouncing claims of illegal action by the board made by Blessey at a meeting of the MAE the week before.

He said Blessey's claim the May 4 meeting is illegal is wrong, and quoted from the Mississippi Code.

He then blasted Blessey for saying Policy 18 is unconstitutional, as well as Blessey's statements to the effect board members may be held liable for enforcing the policy.

"We should not consider this blatant threat," the attorney said.

Board Member Maurice Singleton said he feels teachers are paid less than they should be.

"Teachers are paid less than anyone in the professional world," Singleton told the board.

"I would like the board to look to the future. We need to talk first, but also need to do something to solve this right away," Singleton added.

Ginn asked McCullough if the higher local increment would affect the 1979-1980 budget.

McCullough said he will have to look into the budget and see if the increase will put the schools "in the red."

Ginn then suggested the board look into the budget, "cut costs wherever we possibly can," and give the teachers increments in local supplements for 1979-1980 at least equal to those of the current year.

Board Member Betty Diboll moved the board look at the budget and reinstate the local monies to this year's figures if feasible.

Singleton, Ginn, and Diboll voted in favor of the motion, with Board Member Walter Turcotte abstaining.

The board also extended the deadline for signing teacher contracts from 10 days following receipt of the papers to 5 p.m. May 25.

After that deadline, the school district may cancel the contract and hire a replacement if the teacher does not sign.

Bay St. Louis

Dear Sir:

The Hancock County Humane Society is in Phase III of its program for neutering and spaying animals.

The Society has allocated $400 for this program. Animals who need this service will be taken first come, first served.

In this issue of the Sea Coast Echo is a special notice explaining this program. Thank you, Sincerely,
Oddie R. Carter
Publicity Chairman

Bay St. Louis
Dear Editor,

We, the people of the annexed area of Bay St. Louis between Seube and Turner Streets, are protesting the city's treatment of us.

Benefits, such as water, garbage pickup, sewage and paved streets, etc., were promised us by the city upon annexation many years ago in return for our taxes (at staggering amounts) and we have only water and garbage pick-up.

You'd think after all these years we'd get a little more for our money!

I've called the mayor numerous times to discuss this problem and he is always too busy or out and has never returned my call. (I cannot sit waiting at his office to see him because I have a small baby.)

I understand that federal money has already been appropriated for sewage in our area. I also understand that one of our councilmen is building a new subdivision and that our money is going to put sewage in his subdivision.

Any help you can give us by your 'printed page' will be greatly appreciated. Thank you.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Hugh D. (Rosa)

Hell on Wheels

to gather in N. O.

April 26, 1979

Sea Coast Echo
Editor

Dear Sir:

I would like to use your paper to tell all Veterans of the 2nd Armored "Hell on Wheels" Division in your area of our Reunion, July 25 to July 29, 1979, at the New Orleans-Marrriott Hotel, located at the corner of Canal and Chartres streets.

All records of our World War II Roster have been lost and this is the only way we can locate our lost comrades.

For more information, write to Ernest J. Mable, Route 1, Box 41, Gray, La., 70359.

Thank you,

Yours truly,
Gabe Struggles
Box 293
Waldron Ark. 72958

P.S. A few of the many "Hell on Wheels" of World War II in your area are J.D. Hillhouse, ASN. 14005714 and Harold Smith, both of Fox Co. 41st Inf.

Hancock Red Cross continues appeal

May 11, 1979

Editor
Sea Coast Echo

Dear Sir:

Last week's paper carried an SOS from the local Red Cross Chapter for funds badly needed by the American National Red Cross due to the unexpected drain that had been put on their funds because of their aid to disaster victims all over the country.

The local Chapter's prorated amount was not quite $200, and though the chapter fell short of that goal, to those of you who contributed, the Hancock County Chapter of the Red Cross Says "Thanks" - sincerely and profusely.

The balance is still due from the local chapter to the American National Red Cross, so once more we are asking that you please send in a contribution - any amount, large or small - to: RED CROSS, P.O. 149, Bay St. Louis, MS. 39520.

This can be your way of helping those who suffered so severely in the recent flooding disasters.

Dear Mr. Jordy,
Alpha Omicron Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi is grateful to you and Cedarwood Homes for the opportunity to help the Magnolia School for the Deaf in Jackson and the South Mississippi Retardation Center in Long Beach.

The payment of $125 for cleaning one of your beautiful new homes in Idlewood Village is allocated as follows:

$75.00 Magnolia School for the Deaf and $50 South Mississippi Retardation Center.

Please submit the check to Alpha Omicron, P.O. Box 291, Pass Christian, 39571.

Again, Alpha Omicron thanks you and Cedarwood Homes, Inc. for your generosity in helping support these worthy Mississippi causes, and we look forward to working with you again in the near future.

Sincerely yours,

Dear Editor:

We are very proud of our City Schools in Bay St. Louis, and would like to express our appreciation and thanks to all faculties, School Board members, and City administrators, past and present.

We had eight children who started and finished school in Bay St. Louis. The first started in 1948, and the last finished in 1979.

They were Ruby LaFrance Duncan, Lester LaFrance Jr., Peggy LaFrance Henley, David LaFrance, Douglas LaFrance, Gilbert LaFrance, Delbert LaFrance and Tommy LaFrance.

Again, we thank all of you very much.

Mississippi group

blasts MEC plan

May 5, 1979

Sea Coast Echo
To The Editor:

The plan presented by the Miss. Economic Council to reorganize county government has a nice sound, brining visions of economy and efficiency, but its real purpose is to eliminate control by the voters.

The plan to eliminate self-rule is not original with the MEC, but is being pushed nationwide by the National Chamber of Commerce.

The movement was started by "1313" the Chicago-New York axis of would-be managers of the American people and is sponsored by socialist manipulators.

"1313" is properly known as the Public Administration Clearing House, a non-governmental but political octopus reaching into even the smallest government units.

Part of its support comes from Mississippi taxes through appropriations by our Legislature. It begins with the Council of State Governments and Public Administration Services, under these are the Governors Conference and American Municipal Assn., which are only two of the 23 propaganda mills.

Ironically, we are being duped into subsidizing the destruction of our own freedom.

Government is POWER. Do we want to control it, or are we willing to run our lives and property over to bureaucrats who are selected for us by appointed officials?

When candidates ask for your vote this year, remind them you will not approve their increasing the number, power and authority of appointees.

Library summer programs outlined by director

By PRIMA WUSNACK
HANCOCK LIBRARIAN
Get into the reading game this summer by participating in the 1979 summer reading program at the libraries of the Hancock County Library System.

Called the "Summer of Champions" and based on the Olympics, the program is open to all school-age children, with special activities planned throughout the summer.

The program has been set to begin on Thursday, June 7, and continue through Saturday, July 21.

Parents who wish to register their children should bring them to either the City-County Library, Kiln Library, or Waveland Library.

Children with physical handicaps which prevent them from reading or holding a book can join the reading program and receive free "talking books" on either a record or cassette.

They can also receive a free "talking book machine" which will play the "talking books."

Parents of physically disabled children should contact City-County Library at 467-5282 for more information.

"The Hancock County Library System plans lots of fun activities for participants in the summer reading program this year," reports Prima Wusnack, Library Director.

"We want all the children who participate to realize how much fun they can have through reading," she said.

Each participant in the "Summer of Champions" will receive bookmarks, a reading record and a certificate designed around the program theme in recognition of their participation.

An annual event in Mississippi, the summer reading program is coordinated on the state level by the Mississippi Library Commission and locally by June Dearman of the Hancock County Library System.

Rockwell Career Day honors citizens for efforts on behalf of area youth

Dr. Joel Tate DDS introduces himself to crowd while Bay

Police Chief Douglas Williams waits his turn

Approximately 1,500 students, professionals, and young adults participated in a Career Day program sponsored by Rockwell International, Space Systems Group, NSTL, and the community of Bay St. Louis, May 5 at St. Augustine Seminary Gymnasium.

The program opened with inspirational music by St. Rose De Lima Church choir followed by a welcome and an introduction of all professional participants.

More than 125 professionals, including engineers, attorneys, law enforcement personnel, professional athletes, architects, bankers, doctors, geologists, newsmen, and craftsmen, were available for the one-on-one session to discuss career goals and aspirations with students from more than 20 schools represented from Louisiana and Mississippi.

Mayor Larry Bennet of Bay St. Louis and other city and county officials introduced themselves and expressed appreciation and encouragement to Rockwell for its support and involvement in this type of community event. Awards were presented to Ms. Marilyn Smith, Willie Bradley, Norton Haas Sr., Percy McKay, James Ginn, Rev. Francis Theriault, and Joseph Tate, all of Bay St. Louis; Clarence Harris of Waveland and Robert Pickett of Picayune, for their significant contribution of time and effort to the motivation and awareness of youth.

Also, certificates of appreciation were presented to all professional participants as well as to the schools, churches, and civic groups in attendance.

The day's activities ended with an appreciation dinner in honor of the professional participants and their spouses held at the Waveland Resort Inn.

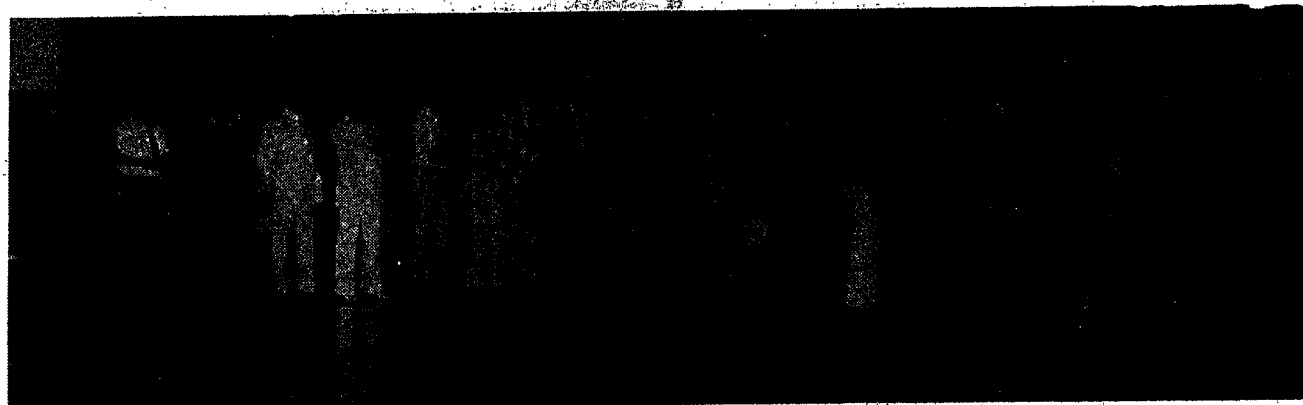

A Community Service Award was presented to G. L. Wilson, resident manager and Director of Rockwell Space Systems Group, for his cooperation and support of the Career Day Program by the community coordinators of Bay St. Louis: Clarence Harris, Robert Williams, Thaddeus Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Saunders Bell, and Attorney Joseph Tate, at a luncheon Friday, May 11 at NSTL.

The agencies, companies and other individuals who helped make the event possible were also acknowledge, including Robert Bush, NASA manager; Jerry Hlass, NASA-NSTL; and his staff, Jewel Gipson, Mack Herring and Ed Ling; and Rockwell coordinators Joyce Lawrence, Dan Frederick, Dan Campton and W. A. Tate.

Wildlife Group Offers Free Slide Show

A 12-minute slide program about the National Wildlife Federation, the nation's largest conservation education organization, is now available on a free loan basis from the NWF.

The program gives an overview of the 43-year-old Federation and its 4.1 million members and supporters.

NWF's diverse programs and actions include acquiring land to set aside for wildlife, filing lawsuits to stop environmentally damaging construction projects, granting money for research, lobbying efforts in the U.S. Congress, distributing educational literature, and publishing National Wildlife, International Wildlife, and Ranger Rick's Nature Magazine for children.

A cassette tape with recorded narration is included with the slide presentation. If no tape player is available, a copy of the script will be sent along.

Address requests to borrow the slide program to: Director of Affiliate Services, National Wildlife Federation, 1412 16th Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036.

AMERICAN LEAGUE Cy Young Award winner Ron (Louisiana Lightning) Guidry shows a youngster how to grip a baseball for the Pitch, Hit, and Run competition sponsored by Burger King Restaurants. The competition is co-sponsored by the National Recreation and Park Association and developed in cooperation with the President's Council on Physical Fitness.

Coast Guard warns on boating rescue device

The U.S. Coast Guard advises boaters to be aware of the potential dangers involved in using certain lithium sulfur dioxide batteries which may be powering emergency locating transmitters on recreational boats. This warning is being issued following an order by the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) for aircraft pilots to remove all such batteries from their planes because of a danger of explosions or fires. The batteries power aircraft emergency locating transmitter (ELTs), devices which produce a radio signal, permitting rescuers to "home-in" on an aircraft which has crashed. There are similar devices, called Emergency Position Indicating Radio Beacons (EPIRBs), designed for use on boats. Most EPIRBs do not use lithium sulfur dioxide batteries. Coast Guard officials believe that there is a possibility that some boaters may have purchased an aircraft ELT, equipped with a lithium sulfur dioxide battery, in lieu of an EPIRB. If this is the case, the boater and boat are in the same danger from fires and explosions as an aircraft equipped with the device. The lithium-sulfur dioxide batteries should be removed as soon as possible and buried. The FAA has listed model numbers for six brands of ELTs which use lithium sulfur dioxide batteries. They are: Communications Components Corporation Model CIR 10 all Serial Numbers Battery pack BP-60, BP-60A, and BP-60B Model CIR 11-2 all Serial Numbers Battery pack BP-60-11, BP-60-11A, and BP-11B Cessna Aircraft Co. Part Number C-565511-0103 Part Number C-565510-0202 Part Number C-565510-0209 Dornes and Margolin Model DMELT 6 Serial Number 1 and subsequent Garrett Manufacturing Limited Part Number 627810-1 Serial Number 108 through 24-94 Part Number 627810-2 Serial Number 201 through 113 Part Number 627810-3 Serial Number 101 through 225 Leigh Systems Model Share 7 Pointer Incorporated Model 2000 Model 2000 Series Mod A Model 3000 Model 3000 Series Mod A Model 3000-2 Lithium battery pack-P-N P2018, P2018 HSP, P2018 HSM, M2018, M2018 HSP, and M2018 HSM.

The FAA may identify other brands and models at a later date. Coast Guard officials advise that not all lithium sulfur dioxide batteries are necessarily hazardous. Make a big catch? Send us a picture and you'll be in the News. Include name and details. In care of Sea Coast Echo sports editor

THE FISHING CONNECTION
 by Frank Zunibro

NICKS AND SCRAPES WEAKEN MONOFILAMENT LINE
 Small nicks and scrapes, so inconspicuous you're apt to miss them at a quick glance, can weaken monofilament fishing line enough to cause you to lose a fish. So, next time you're fishing, reel in the line after a half hour or so, run your fingers lightly over the final few feet.

Feel any rough spots? Look closely and you may be surprised to find spots nicked so deeply there's only a fraction of the original thickness of line left. If you got a good hard strike or hooked a fish that decided to put up a running, darting fight, the line might just snap at that point and leave you cursing over a lost luncheon. Dragging line over rocks, sandy bottoms, coral, barnacle-covered piling, submerged trees or other underwater objects can cause this type of damage. The smart fisherman checks his line after about every twenty casts and, when he notes roughness, cuts off the damaged section of the line and ties his hook or lure into a new portion of the line.

All monofilament line is not alike in its ability to withstand such abrasion and you're better off using a top quality line. While it may cost a little more than low-priced bulk line, it's by far the least expensive part of your fishing trip. In fact, if your line fails it really doesn't matter how good the rest of your tackle is—you've just lost your fish.

The DuPont Company, which has been marketing "Stren" monofilament fishing line for 30 years, asked its researchers to make a tougher line without sacrificing important properties such as excellent knot strength, controlled limpness, shock resistance, and impact strength. Out of their research has come a new "Stren". It is much tougher than other lines, when dragged over 240-grit emery cloth under controlled conditions in the laboratory. That's a tough test designed to simulate the type of abrasive wear you get from underwater obstacles.

The new product, according to DuPont, is so much better than existing monofilament lines that they term it a major research breakthrough. The new "Stren" is available in your local fishing stores from 2 to 80 pounds and can be easily recognized by the word "New" on the package. New "Stren" is available in both clear, blue, and golden fluorescent colors that make it easy to see and follow from rod tip right down to the water. That can be important or, one that toys with the bait, rather than striking hard. By watching the line at the point where it enters the water, you can often see the slight line movement that indicates he's taken the bait before you feel any tug on the line. By setting the hook as soon as you see the line twitch you often get a fish that you'd lose by waiting to feel the nibble.

Strong River Canoe run rescheduled

Due to unfavorable conditions of the river, the Strong River Run Canoe Race was cancelled May 6, but will be held this Sunday, May 20 at 1:00 p.m. at D'Lo Water Park in D'Lo, Mississippi.

Sponsored by the Magee Jaycees and the Pearl River Basin Development District, this will be the first leg of the Pearl River Boatway Canoe Racing Series. According to Bruce Smith, Race Chairman, a record number of entries is expected for this race. The course is approximately 7 miles long, beginning at May's Bridge and ending at D'Lo Water Park. The park is located by taking the D'Lo Exit, approximately 1 mile North of the Strong River Bridge on Highway 49 in Simpson County. Signs will be placed at appropriate places to lead you into the park. Picnic facilities are available for those wishing to enjoy their lunch while waiting for racers to cross the finish line.

Entry blanks and release forms will be available at the park as racers must sign up there before being led to the starting point. Further information may be obtained by calling the Magee Jaycees at 849-2781, 849-3521, or the Pearl River Basin Development District at 354-6301.

A revised list of this year's Canoe Racing Series is as follows:

- May 20-Strong River Run, D'Lo Water Park, D'Lo.
- May 28-Atwood Bluegrass Festival Classic, Atwood Water Park, Monticello.
- June 10-Bogue Chitto Float Trail, Bogue Chitto Water Park, McComb.
- June 16-Columbia Marathon, Columbia Water Park, Columbia.
- June 30-Pearl River Classic, Riverside Park, Jackson.
- July 15-Jourdan River Rally, McLeod Water Park, Kilm.

BOATING TOPICS

Because of the variety of boat types on the market and boat owners' varying needs, most trailer manufacturers offer what at first may seem like a bewildering assortment of models.

Therefore, the MerCruiser stern drive boating experts offer some timely advice to help you select the proper boat trailer.

For boaters who live close to the water, there are light-duty trailers which tend to have smaller, lighter wheels and tires which are entirely adequate for the short drives and moderate speeds involved.

But for those who must travel farther, there are other trailer models with heavier axles and tires, and larger, slower-turning wheels.

Also, there are "economy" and "premium" models. The former may have paint finishes, the latter are often galvanized.

Frame cross-members in economy models may be fewer in number and farther apart. The extra cross-members on a heavier trailer give the frame more resistance to twisting, and the closer spacing of keel rollers often makes a boat roll off and on easier and more positively.

Also, the frame channels on an economy trailer may be shallower than those on a more expensive model.

Once you are aware of differences like these, you should find it relatively easy to skim through a trailer catalog and decide which of the many models is the likeliest candidate to fit your boat and your own individual needs and circumstances.

OVER-EASY

Orca, the killer whale, will often flip its prey 30 feet in the air several times before eating it, according to International Wildlife magazine. The eight-ton cetacean uses its tail to propel penguins, seals, and dolphins into the air.

How much would it cost to rebuild your home today if it were destroyed by fire? Or to repair parts damaged by a storm? Or to replace valuables if your home is burglarized?

Would you have enough insurance to cover such losses? In these days of runaway inflation, your insurance coverage could be left far behind the spiraling costs of just about everything.

The insurance professionals at Hancock Insurance Agency can help you estimate the current replacement value of your home and expand your policy limits to keep your protection in step with your property's increasing value.

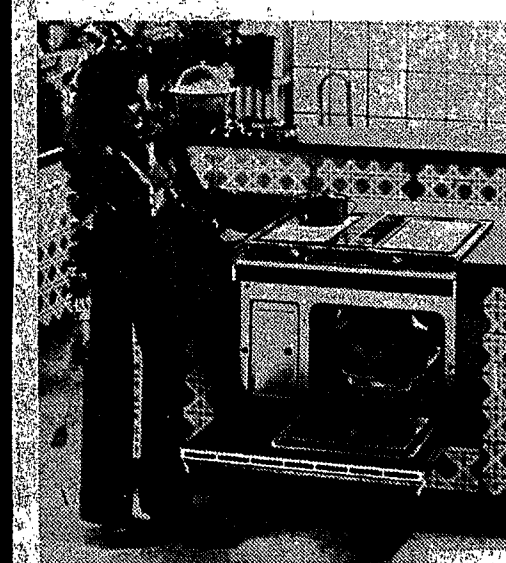

Strike back at inflation! Call us today for a policy update.

Donations of household goods, clothing and other items are still being accepted for St. Ann's rummage sale scheduled for May 19.

Children of St. Ann and St. John's parishes who received their First Holy Communion during 5 p.m. Mass May 5 in St. Ann Church included, Roy Necaise, Michael Boswell, Harold Boswell, Chad Fricke, Brian Scott Ladner, Charles Wayne McCarty, Shaun Patrick McSweeney, Terrel Andrew Ladner, Paul Dwayne Peterson, Mario John Greco, Frank Peter Greco, Peter Stephen Greco, Wayne Spiers, Donald Spiers, Ronald Penton, Michelle Boswell, Wesley Joseph Carver, Penny Sue Ladner, Amy Ladner, Tammy Ladner, Jason Evans, Sherri Galarzi, Harry Kevlin, Scott Ulrich and Dana Suzanne Ulrich.

Readers for the Mass were Michelle Boswell, Sherri Galarzi and Amy Ladner. Jason Evans and Tammy Ladner carried the Offertory gifts.

Following Mass the parents hosted a reception in parish hall for the Communion class, relatives and friends.

A thought for the day from the library of Father Canisius Hayes, pastor St. Ann's Parish

The difference between a prejudice and a conviction is that you can explain a conviction without getting mad.

St. Ann and St. John's pre-fair rummage sale will be held May 19, starting at 8:30 a.m. in front of Kent and Sue's, Lower Bay Road, Lakeshore.

A pre-fair fund raising social will be held Saturday evening in parish hall following 5 o'clock Mass.

Food and drinks will be available.

DAR members urged to oppose Canal bill

Mrs. James Q. Coker, vice-regent and national defense chairman for Gulf Coast Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution, urged everyone to contact her congressman about voting Yes on Taxpayer and Consumer Relief Bill, HR 1958.

"This important Defense Alert was reported at the Chapter's Pot Luck Luncheon held recently at the home of regent, Mrs. Fred Siquefield, in Bayou View. According to National Chairman, Phyllis Schlafly, this may be our last chance to prevent the Panama Canal Giveaway," said Mrs. Coker.

"All chapter members are urged to be sure and read Senator Jake Garn's message on SALTII in the summer issue of the DAR Magazine," she added.

Mrs. Matthew Thompson presented a president general's message about raising national dues and needs of national headquarters.

An Amendment to bylaws made necessary by changes in national, state and local dues was presented in written form and discussed, and will be voted on at the next regular meeting.

National resolutions passed at The Continental Congress held in Washington D.C. in April were analyzed for the members by Mrs. Dalton Shourd.

Chapter regent Mrs. Fred

Siquefield was surprised with a birthday cake by Past Regent Mrs. Robert Bird.

New members Dorothy Parker and Bobby Gibson were honored.

Assisting Mrs. Siquefield as hostess was Miss Lucy Ewin.

Overeaters slate May workshop

The Third Annual Gulf Coast Overeaters Anonymous retreat will be conducted May 25-27 at the University of Southern Mississippi Gulf Park Campus in Long Beach with registration beginning at 2 p.m. May 25.

"If you have a problem with compulsive overeating we highly recommend you attend this retreat," a OA spokesman said.

"To the overweight person who insists he or she is not a compulsive overeater, we offer patience, understanding, and encouragement," the spokesman added.

Registration for the retreat and all meals is $35. Registration for meals and lodging is $55.

A style show will be featured on Saturday evening, along with a gong show.

A sexual enrichment program conducted by Dr. and Mrs. Don Grillo will follow.

For more information call 826-4312, 435-9519, or 863-5738.

Van Peski brothers meet in Bay

By JOE PILET
The plane on which Cornelis Van Peski was a passenger put down its landing gear and taxied up to the runway at the Gulfport-Biloxi Regional Airport on Sunday, April 22. Van Peski was just a bit

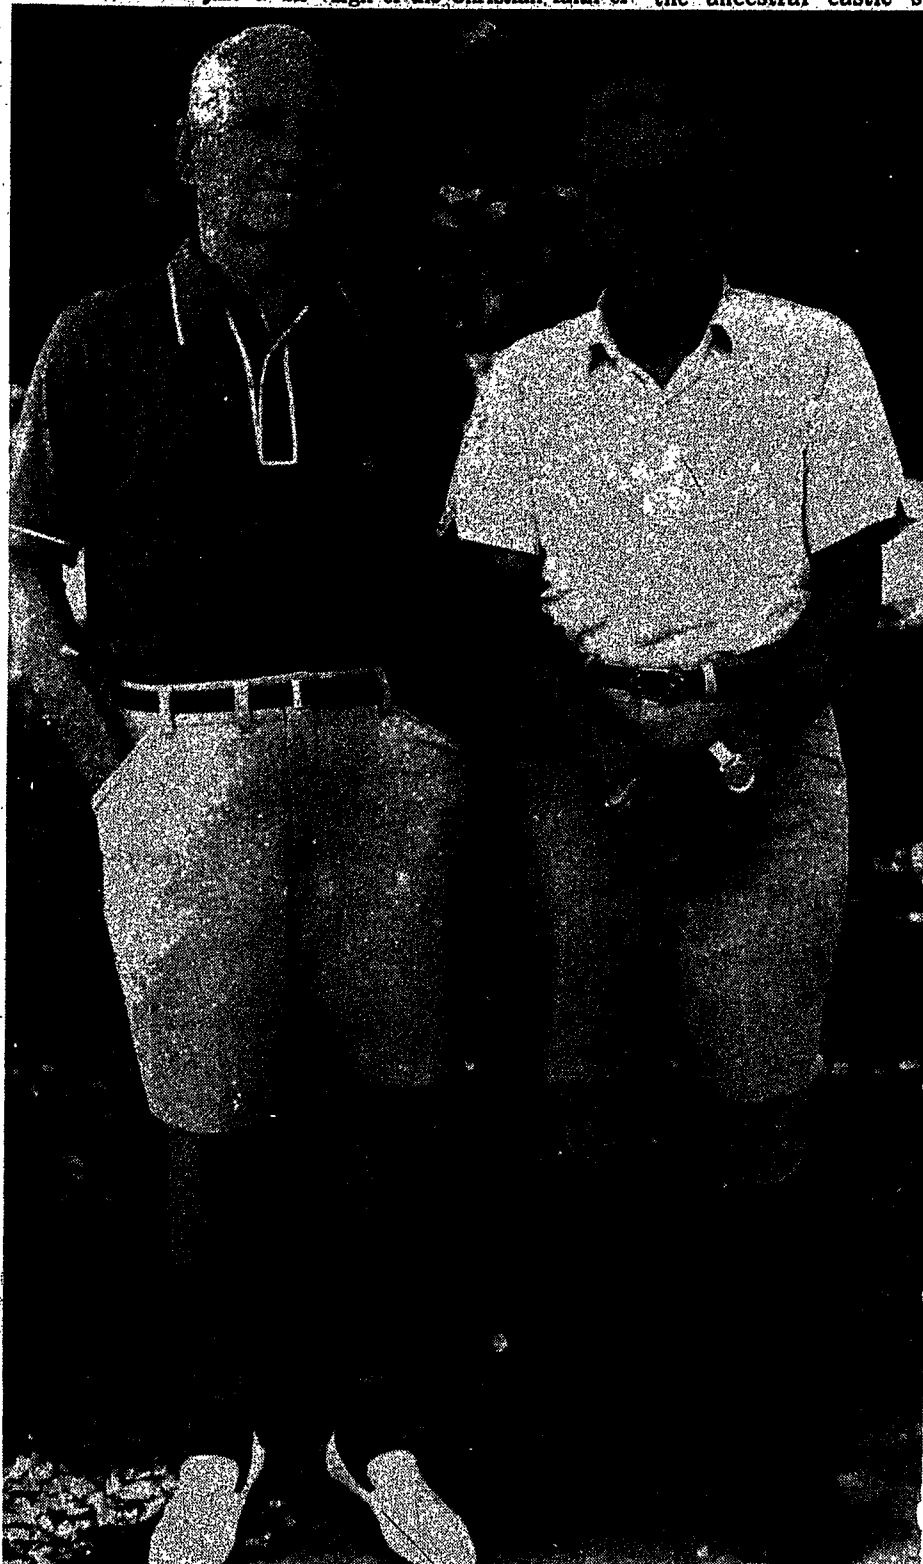

Peski's are direct descendants of a Russian Count who fought during the Crusades of 1290. The Van Peski Coat of Arms is both handsome and unusual. The shield is centered with a St. Andrew's Cross, sacred sign of the Christian faith of

Although both brothers speak several languages including Dutch, German, French and Spanish, they are not completely able to translate into English this heraldic motto. They agreed, however, that the ancestral castle still executive positions of prestige and importance. He was at one time liaison man between his company and the U.S. Government (builders of the Pan American Highway).

In 1932 he was married to Emma Jurado, daughter of the governor of Bocas del Toro who served as Chief Justice of the Supreme Court in Panama.

The Fred Van Peski family of three boys and a daughter, lived in Panama prior to his retirement from the United Brands Fruit Company in 1967.

Fred and Cornelis Van Peski excited, perhaps a little nervous as he walked briskly toward the gate where his brother, Fred, was waiting to meet him.

The tension is understandable. These brothers had not seen each other in 35 years!

"I would have known you anywhere in the world," Cornelis declared as he embraced his brother. Fred concurred. His brother seemed no stranger to him, even though their careers and activities had for all these years placed them on opposite sides of the globe.

And so began a "gab-fest" of remembering when they grew up together in Holland...the years when they traveled in different directions, married and raised families.

Where does a family's background begin? The Van all generations and nationalities. Superimposed is a crescent moon, symbol of Mary, the mother of Jesus and symbol frequently used in 14th and 15th Century paintings. Above the shield is a jeweled crown, an unsheathed sword held in a medieval metal gauntlet, signifying courage to take up the fight to protect the faith.

stands and although it is deteriorating, it is still occupied by a relative who lives in the area of Nishi Noa Garod, Russia.

Fred, who makes his retirement home in Bay St. Louis, was born in Holland. In 1927 he left his homeland went to the Canal Zone. His tropical career included Limon, Parrita and Golfito in Costa Rica as well as Panama City. There he held various

In 1924 Cornelis served as an apprentice in Denmark's famous Grande Hotel Handorff.

There he mastered the art of cooking, an occupation that later took him to many countries where he constantly increased his knowledge of international cookeries.

Prior to following his life-long vocation, Cornelis satisfied his desire to explore the African Coast.

In 1928 in Africa he set up a trading post and as an agent to Hamburg he arranged the buying of animals which were captured by the natives.

These were shipped to the zoo and circus of Hagenbeck, known throughout Europe and comparable to our Barnum and Bailey circus.

"We were a music-loving family," remarked Cornelis in explaining how his parents together with his three sisters decided to go to Salt Lake City, Utah.

They appreciated the beautiful hymns of the Church of the Latter Day Saints, became friendly with the elders who talked to them about America's opportunities and the beauty of the State of Utah.

The music was cheerful and lively and so, they reasoned, must be the people of the area. Today two of the sisters make their homes in California and a third sister lives in Salt Lake City.

After his African venture, Cornelis returned to his first love - the joy of cooking. His trade took him to many interesting cities of the world, among which were Lucerne, Switzerland and the famous Ambassador Hotel in New York City.

For thirteen years he settled down in Arkansas as chief chef at A & M College in Monticello.

It was there in 1934 that he met and married a talented student, Louise Butler. No semi-retired, Cornelis serves as a consultant chef for restaurants and enjoys preparing a variety of dishes for friends in California.
